Updated 10 November 2009

Adelaide-based commercial joinery and construction firm, Comace has won accreditation from the Australian Shop and Office Fitting Industry Association - among the first companies in Australia to achieve the status and the first in South Australia.

The ASOFIA Accreditation Program is used to monitor, assess and evaluate the standards and quality of shop and office fitting professionals.

The Accreditation applies to all of Comace's divisions of construction, joinery and maintenance, which have developed over nearly 30 years and now employs a team of 25 staff.

"The ASOFIA Accreditation Program is a professional development program that is the first of its kind to be offered in the Fit-Out Industry, promoting excellence in the discipline and development of shop and office fit-out," says CEO of ASOFIA, Gerard Ryan.
